Celebrating Women Business Owners

(From American Express OPEN's study of women in business. July 2012)

- * In the past 15 years, the number of women-owned businesses grew by 54%; there are now 8.3 million women-owned businesses in the United States.
- * Despite owning nearly 30% of U.S. businesses, women attract only 5% of the nation's equity capital. When it comes to first-year funding, women receive 80% less capital than men.
- * Women-owned businesses employ 7.7 million people. That's 40% more people than three largest employers — McDonald's, IBM and Wal-Mart — combined.
- * Women-owned firms generate revenues of $1.3 trillion. Over the past 15 years, women-owned businesses saw 58% increase in revenue, from $546 billion to $1.3 trillion now. This revenue is more than the combined market cap of Apple, Microsoft, GE, Google and Sony.
- * The industries with the fastest growth and greatest share of women-owned firms are educational services, health care and social assistance, and entertainment and recreation.
- * In seven out of 13 of the most populous industries, women-owned firms are exceeding overall growth.
- * The top states for women-owned businesses are Arizona, Nevada, Wyoming, and North Dakota. The top cities are Sacramento, Riverside, San Antonio, Houston, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.
- * 2% of women-owned businesses bring in more than $1 million in annual revenue, versus 5% of all firms.
- * Of women-owned businesses, 5.5% used a loan to get started, compared to 10.7% overall.
